

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A hand tool includes a retractable shank, a handle, an elastic member, and at least one fixing pin. Thus, the movable rod of the retractable shank can be retracted into and expanded outward from the receiving chamber of the 5 handle so as to adjust the distance between the retractable shank and the handle, so that the working length of the hand tool can be adjusted easily, rapidly and arbitrarily.